Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 3-6-09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
2. Regarding applicant's arguments directed to the Jonsson reference, the examiner maintains its position as shown in the office action mailed on 1-12-09. The passage of col. 9, lines 1-8, shows that the teachings of the invention of Jonsson does not necessarily have to be done by the mobile service center. Since it does not necessarily have to be done by the mobile service center, it can be properly combined with Chen that shows the functions are being done at the mobile device. Therefore, the combination of Jonsson and Chen disclose all the limitations of the present claim. The argument about the duplication of computing resources is not persuasive because the section indicated above clearly talks about division of work, not duplication of work. Thereby, they are properly combinable.
3. The rest of the arguments fall for the same reasons as shown in the above paragraph. The current rejection in record remains.
